

Project Title: Future History

Hosted By:

Project Introduction:

Founded and based in The Netherlands, we produce ceramic products designed by leading international designers, architects and visual artists. We take social and cultural responsibility for the legacy of the ceramic crafts. Our mission is brought to the market through a team consisting of professionals, students, people with distance from the labour market, designers and volunteers. We all share one common passion: everyone deserves a place, everyone has got a talent and anyone can contribute to make our world somewhat nicer.

The cross fertilization between professional designers of our time, the knowledge of the craft of ceramic art centre Cor Unum and the talent trained on art schools in the Netherlands, results in innovative products, new design traditions and fruitful collaboration between independent artists and the ceramic production process. This is the ambition of Cor Unum and it illustrates how designers of our time prefer to work: in co-creation in order to inspire new shapes and designs. This results in Cor Unum being the linking pin of a movement that guarantees a meaningful role for the traditional ceramic craft in state-of-the-art design
